

MSS GROUP WELCOMES BASE FIRE TO STRENGTHEN FIRE PROTECTION CAPABILITY ACROSS NSW

Sydney, NSW – July 2026 – Multi Services Solutions Group (MSS Group) is pleased to announce that Base Fire, one of New South Wales' leading fire protection specialists, has joined the MSS Group family, strengthening the Group's capability across fire protection, facilities management, construction and technical services. Base Fire has established itself as a respected fire protection contractor in NSW, providing design, installation, commissioning, testing and maintenance of fire safety systems for more than 20 years.

A Stronger Combined Offering

The addition of Base Fire enhances MSS Group's ability to support clients throughout the lifecycle of their assets, from construction and installation through to maintenance, compliance, facilities management and specialist fire protection services.

The addition of Base Fire marks an exciting new chapter for both businesses, bringing together complementary capabilities and creating new opportunities for clients, employees and long-term growth.

Chris Russell, Chief Executive Officer of MSS Group, said the acquisition represents a strategic alignment of capabilities and values.

"Base Fire has built an outstanding reputation over more than two decades through technical expertise, quality workmanship and a genuine commitment to customer service. We see a business with strong leadership, a highly capable team and a culture that aligns closely with our own. This partnership strengthens our existing service offering and creates greater opportunities for clients to access complementary specialist expertise through a trusted group of businesses. We are excited to welcome Daniel, Chris and the entire Base Fire team to MSS Group and look forward to supporting their continued growth."

Continued Growth for Base Fire

Base Fire will continue to operate under its established brand and leadership, with Daniel and Chris Lehn remaining actively involved in the business.

Daniel Lehn, Managing Director of Base Fire, said joining MSS Group represents an exciting opportunity for Base Fire's future.

"In joining MSS Group, this creates an exciting platform for us to continue growing while maintaining the values and customer focus that have made us successful. Base Fire's success has been built through its people, customer relationships and reputation in the market. Our focus is on building upon that strong foundation and investing in the next stage of growth for the business."

"We're particularly excited about the opportunity to collaborate with the broader MSS Group team. By combining our fire protection expertise in complement with MSS Group's capabilities. Together, we can create more opportunities across both existing and emerging industry sectors while continuing to provide the specialist fire protection expertise our customers rely on."

"For our employees and customers, it's very much business as usual. The same people, the same leadership team and the same commitment to quality and service remain in place. What changes is the opportunity to continue growing and building an even stronger future."

The acquisition reflects MSS Group's ongoing strategy of expanding specialist service capabilities while preserving strong local brands, relationships and expertise that clients value. As Base Fire joins, this brings together like-minded businesses that share a commitment to safety, technical excellence, customer service and long-term client relationships.

About MSS Group

MSS Group is a privately owned Australian and New Zealand business that delivers construction, facilities management, fire, HVAC, maintenance and technical services across a broad range of industries. With expertise spanning the full asset lifecycle, MSS helps clients build, maintain and protect critical facilities through safe, practical and customer-focused solutions. We employ over 350+ people in specialist and technical trade roles across Australia and New Zealand.

Website: mssgroup.com.au

About Base Fire

Base Fire is a privately owned New South Wales fire protection business providing design, installation, commissioning, testing, maintenance and certification of fire safety systems across a broad range of industries. Celebrating 20+ years in operation, Base Fire delivers practical, compliant and customer-focused fire protection solutions that help clients safeguard their people, property and assets. With specialist expertise spanning new projects, upgrades, maintenance and emergency response services, Base Fire has become one of NSW's leading fire protection contractors, trusted by clients across commercial, industrial, health, education, aged care and defence sectors.

From left to right; Daniel Lehn, Managing Director Base Fire; Chris Russell, MSS Group CEO; Chris Lehn, Operations Manager Base Fire