RAMS
Regional Airport Management Services

MSS GROUP STRENGTHENS AVIATION LEADERSHIP WITH APPOINTMENT OF ADAM KETT

24 November 2026

MSS Group has appointed Adam Kett as Managing Director of Regional Airport Management Services (RAMS), strengthening the Group's specialist aviation leadership as the business enters its next phase of growth.

Adam Kett Guy Thompson

Adam brings extensive aviation and aerodrome management experience spanning airport operations, safety and compliance, commercial management, risk and stakeholder engagement.

Most recently, Adam Kett has served as Manager Aerodromes at Fortescue, with responsibility for the safety, compliance and operations of five aerodromes supporting FIFO charter operations across Western Australia's Pilbara region. He is also WA Division Chair of the Australian Airports Association.

His career experience includes senior roles across regional services, ground operations, airport management, compliance, safety and training, giving him a strong understanding of the complex operational and regulatory environments in which RAMS and its clients operate.

Guy Thompson, RAMS Company Director said the appointment would strengthen RAMS' specialist leadership while supporting the continued growth and development of the business.
"Adam brings significant aviation expertise, operational leadership and a strong understanding of safety, compliance and complex customer environments. His experience is highly relevant to RAMS and the clients and communities the business supports. We are delighted to welcome Adam to MSS Group. His appointment builds on the strong foundations established at RAMS and strengthens our capability to pursue the opportunities ahead."

Adam Kett said he was looking forward to joining RAMS and working with its people, clients and stakeholders.
"I'm excited to join RAMS and MSS Group at an important stage in the business's development. RAMS has built strong capability and trusted relationships across regional aviation, and I look forward to working with our people, clients and industry partners to build on that foundation. Our focus will remain firmly on safe, compliant and reliable airport operations while continuing to strengthen our service offering and pursue sustainable growth opportunities."

As part of the leadership transition, current RAMS Managing Director Guy Thompson will remain actively engaged with RAMS, continuing to support its clients and team through his technical expertise, industry knowledge and focus on business growth, whilst applying his experience and knowledge across the broader Group strategic and operational priorities in an expanded MSS Group leadership role.

MSS Group Chief Executive Officer Guy Haslehurst
"Guy has played an instrumental role in establishing and growing RAMS, developing its operational capability and building strong client relationships. His ongoing involvement will provide valuable continuity for RAMS clietns and the team as Adam steps into the Managing Director role. Guy's additional Group responsibilities enable us to draw on his experience more broadly, while his priority remains supporting RAMS in a technical and business development capacity. Adam will bring dedicated operational leadership as MD. Together, these appointments strengthen our leadership capability at both divisional and Group level."

ABOUT MSS GROUP

Multi Services Solutions Group is a privately owned, integrated technical services group operating across Australia and New Zealand. With more than 450 employees, the Group delivers end-to-end solutions across facilities management, technical trades, project and construction management, and regional airport management services.

MSS Group's specialist capabilities span airport operations, safety and compliance, fire protection, HVAC, electrical, building maintenance, facilities management and project delivery, supporting the safety, compliance, performance and longevity of its clients' property and critical assets.

Media enquiries
Katrina Southon
Director of Corporate Affairs
MSS Group